Saltwater Lures

Here's a look at some of the best new saltwater lures.

AHI Sabo Jig System

American Maple Inc.

Sabo Jigs are designed to give anglers twice the size and bulk in a jighead without the weight. They come equipped with realistic, 3-D eyes and laser-honed needle point hooks. They're available in 3/8-, 1/2-, 3/4-, 1- and 1 1/2-ounce sizes and four colors. Other Sabo jighead designs, the Squid Head and the Bullet Head, are available in a variety of sizes, weights and finishes.

Assorted Soft Plastics

Crème

The company now offers several new styles of soft plastic saltwater baits for 2010. The 3 3/4-inch Crème Shrimp is offered in eight colors; the Devil's Tongue, a soft plastic lure, comes in nine colors and is injected with air, allowing it to float most hooks; and the Killer Diller, a series of weighted shrimp lures, is offered in two sizes — 3 1/2 and 4 inches. Each style of lure is offered in several colors.

PowerBait Ripple Shad

Berkley

Place one of these little rascals on a small jighead and you have a trout and redfish slayer. The lures, available in two sizes and a wide range of colors, swim like a small minnow in the water.
